

Isabelle De Bruyne awarded Sustainability Professional 2023

CFE is proud to announce that Isabelle De Bruyne, Chief Sustainability Officer, has been elected Sustainability Professional 2023 by Time for Society and VBO FED. The award recognizes professionals who drive a progressive sustainability strategy inside their organization and take on a leading role in their sector. The award is the result of a selection procedure that started in November 2022. On top of the recognition for her work from the professional jury, Isabelle also won the public vote.

Isabelle was appointed Chief Sustainability Officer in May 2019 after working as a civil structural engineer on CFE construction sites for 17 years. Since then, she has launched an ambitious sustainability strategy which is central to CFE's mission to make a positive change for future generations. More recently the Group was ranked Top ESG Company 2023 by independent rating agency Sustainalytics.

Isabelle De Bruyne, Chief Sustainability Officer: "This award is the icing on the cake and I could never have won it without the support and determination of all my colleagues. Sustainability is a group effort if it is to be successful, and that is clearly the case at CFE. With this award I most of all wish to inspire others to be part of our community and make a positive impact on our society."

Raymund Trost, CEO of CFE: "We are very proud of Isabelle and the work she and her team and the whole organization have done. At CFE we really want to build a community that brings together people, skills, materials and technologies to make a change for good. We have a responsibility to challenge the status quo, and to change what needs to be changed for future generations. I hope this award inspires others to join our community, because together we can move mountains."
